So, the real question is, “Why do you need document imaging and archiving?” Reproductions of tax returns, trial balances, and audit reports can be generated in your computer system now, right? Right! However, you still print them out and place the deliverables in a client folder, right? WHY?

The client file has always been the essential way of knowing with certainty what was delivered to the client; the permanent and confidential archive of a client’s important business matters.

That’s where LaserFiche steps in. All of the deliverables, client notes, working papers – every document - can be permanently archived. Changes cannot be made without security clearance. Every document can be kept at your fingertips, only a mouse click away. Even archive Word, Excel or other type files in their native formats for preservation and future access or reference.

No more digging through bankers boxes in the hot summer heat...No more leaky roof or rats to destroy your client files. Your filing system just entered the 21st century.
